Say not because he did no wonderous deed,
Amassed no worldly gain,
Wrote no great book, revealed no hidden truth,
Perchance he lived in vain.

For there was grief within a thousand hearts
The hour he ceased to live;
He held the love of women and of men—
Life has no more to give.

INTRODUCTION

The following is an outline of a branch of the Harvey family of America. It is perhaps not wholly complete; but it is, we think, sufficiently so to enable one to form some idea of the life and descendants of that pioneer preacher and patriot, Erastus Harvey. From the New York Independent the following is taken: "We have never been able to get over the conviction that there is truth in the saying that 'blood will tell.' We have a suspicion that, if the facts were all told, it would appear that an astonishingly large proportion of our most unpretentious Americans of real calibre, men and women that have done big things in business, in politics and in the professions, in science, in scholarship and in art, could show pedigrees well worthy of serious examination; not necessarily descendants from kings and nobles, but descendants from families in which intelligence, courage, persistence and resourcefulness have characterized an extraordinarily large proportion of the kindred. Where pedigrees of this kind can be established, it is, we believe, well worth while to devote a reasonable amount of time and money to the necessary genealogical research. Pride of family and of ancestry, so far from being a bad thing, or a thing to be held lightly, might be cultivated in our modern civilization with happy results. We have come to regard with too much indifference those achievements in life that can't be bought with money or raced after in a car. A little more regard for things that make for dignity, serenity, peace of mind, considerateness, and that gracious kindness which once was associated with the words 'gentleman' and 'gentlewoman,' would be a good thing for the American people. These things have always been associated, and probably will continue to be associated, with family pride. 'Noblesse oblige' is a phrase that applies to intellectual and moral rank quite as truly as it ever belonged to the rank ruthlessly created by the sword and established as legalized privilege."

Thus the descendants of Erastus Harvey may not possess in their veins the blood of kings and nobles, but in him they have common ancestry of intelligence, courage, persistence and resourcefulness. He lived a life that combined a love of duty with the love of righteousness. The silver hairs of a long life spent in usefulness were his crown. The desire to persuade others to live noble lives was his scepter. The field of his endeavor was his throne. To his children and his children's children he left these traits as a heritage forever, which, let us hope, are characteristic of his descendants: INDUSTRY, FRUGALITY and STRICT HONESTY.

THE HARVEY FAMILY, IN GENERAL.

The first Harveys to reach America came previous to the year 1610, and landed at Boston, Mass. Thomas and William, brothers, were here before that date, and have descendants living in various parts of the country, both East and West. These are known as the Massachusetts branch. There are numerous Harvey families in Pennsylvania. The New Jersey Harveys have descended from one Robert Harvey, who came from Suffolkshire, England, about the year 1740. There are Harveys that settled in New Hampshire; and Harveys in Virginia. These latter are connected with the Marshall family. Thus the Harvey family is almost as numerous as the Smith or Brown or Jones family.

OUR ANCESTRY.

But all these bear no relationship to our branch, they being of English origin. Our branch of the Harvey family came from Scotland. That is the tradition handed down from one generation to another. The strong Scotch character is seen in the most of them to this day. Staunch for the right as they see the right, they do very little changing from one opinion, or doctrine, or party, to another. They go far towards proving the old adage: "The way to change a Scotchman's mind is to kill him."

The first of our family to reach the shores of America came about the time of the French and Indian War. He is known to have been a sailor. But his first name and other events of his life are unknown to this generation. Of his family we know of but one: William Harvey, born 1754 in East Haddam, Connecticut. He was a soldier of the Revolutionary War. A study of the Historical Collections of the Connecticut Military Records, Vol. XII., discloses the names of many Harveys that entered the Revolutionary War from East Haddam. Among them are William, Nathan, John, Amos, Ezra, Ithamer, and Asahel. Just what relationship they bear, if any, is not known to the writer; but the similarity of the names with some of the names of his children leads one to believe they may have been of his kinfolk. The best known biography of William Harvey is his obituary, published in the Haverhill, Grafton County (New Hampshire) Intelligencer, bearing the date of Wednesday, October 4, 1826. An original copy of this paper is now in the possession of Mrs. Ann Ferry, Leeds, Iowa.

"For the Intelligencer.

"Mr. Editor: I send you the following which I wish you to insert in your paper: Died at Lyndon, Vermont, on the 20th of August, 1826, Mr. William Harvey, a soldier of the Revolutionary War, aged 72 years. Mr. Harvey was born in the year 1754, in East Haddam, Connecticut, and was uniformly throughout his life, a zealous advocate of republican principles; and has passed through the most perilous scenes and hardships, both by sea and by land, in the service of his country and his family. He engaged in the sea faring business in the fifteenth year of his age, and continued in that employment until the commencement of the Revolutionary War, when he enlisted in the service of his country on land and first went to Boston, and there stayed till the British left town; and then, after returning home to his family in East Haddam, immediately enlisted on board a tow-galley, under the command of Captain Tinker, for a term of six months, and was sent up the North River to oppose the enemy, and in which place he was called to action. But when the time of his enlistment was out, he returned home to his family, and entered on board a merchant ship fitted out by the State for St. Martins, West Indies, in quest of salt; but on his way home was overtaken and captured by a British ship of war and carried into Providence, Rhode Island, where, after suffering the loss of property and health, in consequence of ill-treatment, he was exchanged and set at liberty. In May, 1777, he enlisted in the land service in the Continental Army for the term of three years, in Captain Cattin's company, and General Huntington's brigade, where he discharged his duty with faithfulness and to the acceptness of his officers. During the time of his service he was in the Germantown battle, Pennsylvania, also in Monmouth, New Jersey, besides others of minor consequence; and in the year 1780, was honorably discharged. He then returned home, and entered on board a sloop for a trading voyage to the West Indies, and on his return was again taken prisoner and carried into the Isle of Bermuda, where he stayed eight months, and suffered very severely from the enemy, and was robbed of all he had on board, and even some of the clothes from his back. He remained a prisoner until peace took place, after which he was carried to North Carolina, and from there home to Connecticut. After this he followed the sea for a while, and suffered the loss of property and underwent many hardships. In 1792 he quit the sea and removed to Chesterfield, New Hampshire, and in 1793 he moved to Lyndon, Vermont, where he died. It may be observed that in the year 1796, he professed a hope in Christ, and attached himself to a Methodist church, of which he was a constant member until he died; but the place being new where he moved when he left Chesterfield, he labored very hard to support his family, which was large and was rendered still harder for him on account of his always being accustomed to the sea, and to add to his affliction, he was troubled with a bad breech, which he received in the war by lifting. By enlarging, it grew more troublesome, until combined with other infirmities which for years he had been troubled with, terminated his existence on the 20th of August last. It may be said of Mr. Harvey that he was a kind husband and an affectionate father, an honest man, a good neighbor, a real Christian, a zealous patriot, and a friend of liberty. He lived respected by his friends, and manifested great fortitude of mind in his last illness; and rejoiced in hope of a glorious crown of life which awaited him; and with the greatest composure bid his friends and companion adieu, and launched into the Eternal World. He left behind his aged companion in life, and children to mourn his loss."

William Harvey married Jane Beebe, born October 15, 1757, of English parentage. At the time of his death he and his wife were making their home with their daughter, Jane Prescott. Afterward, the widow lived with her son, Erastus Harvey, and died at Woodstock, Ohio, July 21, 1840. The children of William and Jane (Beebe) Harvey were:

William, born February 9, 1777.

John, born January 22, 1780.

Daniel, born January 6, 1782.

Nathau, born March 4, 1784.

Lucretia, born January 29, 1787.

Erastus, born March 8, 1789.

Simon and Dotia, (twins), born April 2, 1791. Dotia died April 16, 1812.

Simon, the 2d, born October 16, 1793. Died June 27, 1795.

Rufus and Robert, (twins), born April 25, 1795. Robert died June 2d, 1795.

Jane, born May 7, 1797.

Robert, the 2d, born April 10, 1800. Died April 25, 1800.

OUTLINE OF THESE ABOVE, EXCEPTING ERASTUS.

The three oldest, William, John and Daniel, disappeared in a mysterious manner. Not far from the year 1800, they ran off to sea. They never returned. As nothing was ever heard of or from them, it is supposed that they were lost at sea. There was quite a strong attachment existing between parents and children in this family, which must have been shared by these three, so that if any of them could have reached home or sent word to sorrowing parents, he would have done so. Ever afterwards the mother in telling of her lost sons would walk the floor and cry.

Nathan B. married and moved to western New York State. From time to time letters passed between him and the family at Woodstock, Ohio, but when these ceased all trace of that family was lost. He was a lawyer and preacher, and interested in farming, and is credited with being a brainy man. Of his family the writer only knows that he had a son, Oscar.

Lucretia married Daniel Stoddard at Lyndon, Vermont. They came to Woodstock, Ohio, in the Fall of 1836. Daniel was born August 23, 1768, and died April 2, 1859. Lucretia died August . ., 1852. They are buried in the old cemetery at Woodstock, Ohio. There were eleven children born to Daniel and Lucretia Stoddard, as follows:

Elenor, born October 11, 1806.

Martha, born January 11, 1809.

Diana, born August 18, 1813.

Nancy, born August 12, 1815.

Ruben and Rufus, (twins), born August 28, 1818.

John, born August 2d, 1820.

Carlos, Cassandre, Cassandana, (triplets), born January 6, 1823.

William, born May 23, 1828.

Nancy married Ivan Pugsley, a blacksmith, who lived and died in East Liberty, Ohio. Carlos Stoddard was living in Linn county, Kansas, in 1903. Further information about the Stoddard family is not known to the writer. It is supposed that the first Simon died young, as there was a second Simon that also died in infancy.

Rufus Harvey was for many years a Baptist minister. Later he entered the ministry of the Christian church. He was a Mason. His first wife was Sarah Corless, whom he married in 1821. She died May 3, 1850, aged 53 years, 9 months and 9 days. In 1858 Rufus married Mrs. Chloe Z. Thompson. Rev. Rufus Harvey and family came to Woodstock, then to Logan county, finally settling at Maineville, Warren county, Ohio, where he died February 14, 1876. He is described as one of "dignity in appearance, kind and affable in demeanor, easy and fluent in conversation; he was a great sermonizer." The following children were born to Rev. Rufus and Sarah (Corless) Harvey:

Daniel Azro, born December 3, 1821. Died March 24, 1829.

Edwin Farr, born April 18, 1823. Died in eastern New York State November 14, 1867.

Rufus Lewis, born December 14, 1824. He was a school teacher and a fine penman. He went to White county, Indiana, and was County Auditor at one time. He died December 25, 1900, in the Soldiers' Home at Marion, Indiana.

Albert Beebe, born July 27, 1826. Died February 20, 1827.

William Bramwell, born March 16, 1828. Died at Peru, Miami county, Indiana, December 25, 1900.

Charles Wesley, born December 25, 1829. He was a physician.

Benjamin Franklin, born October 26, 1831. Died September 17, 1832.

Melvina Jenrietta, born June 10, 1833. Married Rev. J. F. Tufts in 1852. She died June 27, 1908, near Marion, Ohio. Buried at Maineville, Ohio. She had two children: Will, a jeweler, Painesville, Ohio; Ella, wife of George Woods, farmer, near Marion, Ohio.

Roswell, H., born November 23, 1825. Died June 4, 1842.

George Washington, born September 4, 1840. Died June 28, 1843.

Sarah Jane, born July 29, 1843. Died ~~June 28, 1843~~ Mar 11 1844

Further information about the descendants of Rev. Rufus Harvey not known to writer.

Jane Harvey, youngest except one of the children of William Harvey, married Eliphalet Prescott and they remained in the East. He died June 26, 1871, and his wife, Jane, died October 8, 1890, being the last of the William Harvey family to go. They had three children:

Sarah N., born 1824, married Charles Streeter. They had four children. Charles W. Prescott (1826) died in the army in 1863; he was married and left four children. Salina (1835) married L. S. Wheeler and was living at East Charleston, Vermont, in 1892. Further information about the Prescotts not known to the writer.

BIOGRAPHY OF ERASTUS HARVEY.

Erastus Harvey, sixth child of William and Jane (Beebe) Harvey, was born in East Haddam, Connecticut, March 8, 1789. His grandparents were Scotch emigrants to Connecticut, a little after the middle of the eighteenth century. He made use of his opportunity to obtain an education in such schools as those times produced. In the year 1807, he enlisted in the regular army and was in the War of 1812. He played the tenor drum in the battle of Plattsburg, in September, 1814. He received many benefits from the military service in the way of regular habits of daily life; the ability to walk correctly, for even in his last years he was able to walk rapidly many miles; the ability to endure hardships and to overcome them—for hardships are always present in the army, and the discipline thus derived builds character which is of benefit in other walks of life. At the close of the war he returned to Lyndon, Vermont, and in the year 1816 he married Betsey Bettis, who was born September 27, 1798. She was the daughter of John and Eunice (Ainsworth) Bettis. John Bettis came to America from France, when he was twenty-one years of age. He came to escape being impressed into military service. He was of French Huguenot parentage. After being in America about six years he settled in Vermont and married Eunice Ainsworth. Soon after their marriage they located in Canada among the French Canadians. They had three daughters: Eunice, Betsey and Esther. By industry and economy John Bettis accumulated a small fortune. Because of sympathy for the American cause during the War of 1812, the British confiscated all his property, and they were rendered penniless. They moved back to Vermont where they remained the rest of their lives.

Erastus Harvy was a member of the Free Will Baptist church at Cabot, Vermont, in 1821. The Wheelock Q. M., licensed him to preach in 1822. In 1825 he was ordained. The following certificate shows his ordination, the original copy of which is now in the possession of L. B. Harvey, Marysville, Ohio:

“Certificate of Ordination.

This certifyeth that at Lyndon in the county of Caladony and State of Vermont, on the 28th day of August, 1825, Brother Erastus Harvey, of said Lyndon, received ordinance agreeable to the New Testament, and was set apart to the work of the Gospel Ministry by the laying on of the hands of Ordaining Elders.

From the time of his marriage until he entered the ministry he had farmed at Lyndon, Vermont. His obituary speaks of his preaching first in Vermont; then he went to Littleton, New Hampshire, for one year, returning to Vermont. Thence to Barnston, in Stanstead county, Canada, Province of Quebec. The Stoddards and others had gone to the then far West and had located at Woodstock, Champaign county, Ohio. They sent back glowing accounts of the new country with its splendid crops and fine climate. A call came to Rev. Erastus Harvey to preach to a congregation at Woodstock, which was gladly accepted and he moved his family to that place sometime about the year 1838. It was a long journey. They came by wagon to the Erie Canal. Thence by canal to Buffalo. Thence by lake boat to Cleveland, Ohio. Thence by wagon south to the National pike which they followed to Columbus and thence to Woodstock. Here he purchased a farm in the woods and soon a log house was built and some land cleared. This farm is now owned by the Lincolns and to this day is called the Harvey farm. He preached to Baptist congregations in Champaign and Union counties, and for a while at Pitchin, in Clark county. After six or seven years he sold this farm and purchased one in Perry township, Logan county, Ohio, near North Greenfield. He ran an ashery on this farm and the ash pile can be seen even to this day on the north bank of Mill Creek on what is now the Critchfield farm. He continued to preach and acted as Q. M. clerk "making full proof of his ministry." After a residence of about five years here, he sold this farm and purchased another in Bokescreek township, some four miles to the north, and one mile east of Walnut Grove. It is now part of the Garwood place and south of the road. While living in Logan county, the sons and daughters began to marry and go to homes of their own. William lived on an adjoining farm and taught school and practiced medicine. Alonzo taught school and made brick on a farm one and a half miles east of West Mansfield. John Bettis owned the farm now possessed by Will Ballinger, a mile east of Bethel church. Mary Ann married Thomas Ballinger while her parents were living on Mill Creek. Isaac Albee lived on the farm now owned by Earnest Atkinson, a mile to the northeast of West Mansfield. Amos Parker was teaching and farming near Springfield, Ohio. Daniel Young was learning the blacksmith trade at East Liberty, a few miles away. David Marks taught school and lived in West Mansfield. Edwin, Cynthia, and Dennis were at home or were working for the boys. Betsey Jane Darling died about this time, being the first of the family to pass away excepting a child at Lyndon, Vermont. After a long illness from dropsy the wife and mother died on the Walnut Grove farm July 31, 1855. She was buried in what is now Greenlawn cemetery, two miles south of West Mansfield. She was one of the kindest of mothers and with her gone the family circle was forever broken. In a month or two the father sold the farm and in September, 1855, with his sons, William and Albee, he moved to Castalia, Winneshiek county, Iowa, where others of his family had recently settled.

In 1857 he married Mrs. Hannah Sargent, who was a native of Vermont. He preached to a number of congregations in northern Iowa and did so occasionally till a few days before his death. "As a preacher Brother Harvey was earnest, animated and spiritual. He had received and had retained the Holy Anointing which gave him strength and boldness in the presence of the people. His sermons were eminently Scriptural, evangelical, and comforting to the saints. He succeeded well as a pastor and sometimes his labors were crowned with revivals. As a Christian he delighted in the bright and peaceful regions of the higher life—a life hid with Christ in God. He was loved and esteemed for his moral and religious worth and for his work's sake."

He died August 27, 1872, of bilious diarrhea and was first buried in Mt. Grove cemetery; but was later removed to Pleasant View cemetery, Castalia, Iowa, where a suitable stone marks the last resting place of a patriot and pioneer. The children of Rev. Erastus and Betsey (Bettis) Harvey were: William Alexander, Alonzo Augustus, John, Betsey Jane, John Bettis, Mary Ann, Isaac Albee, Amos Parker, Daniel, David Marks, Edwin Erastus, Cynthia Lucretia and Dennis Rufus. Thirteen births, twelve living to adult age.

OUTLINE OF THE DESCENDANTS OF REV. ERASTUS HARVEY.

WILLIAM ALEXANDER HARVEY was born April 1, 1817, at Lyndon, Vt. His boyhood was spent on the farm. While a resident of Barnston, Canada, he married Arminda Redway, a native of that place. He taught school and studied medicine, relying principally on herbs as a curative. From Canada they moved to near West Mansfield, Ohio, at about the time his father settled there, and taught school and practiced medicine. Later he moved to a place one mile south of Mt. Victory, Ohio, where he farmed and practiced medicine, having a large practice, both at that place and at West Mansfield. In September, 1855, they moved to Castalia, Iowa. Here he farmed and followed his profession until 1876 when they moved to Valley Springs, Minnehaha county, South Dakota. Here his practice extended into three States, South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska. His wife died August 5, 1883. Later he married Emiline Miller. His death occurred April 28, 1896, and was buried beside his first wife in the cemetery at Valley Springs. There were 10 children born to William and Arminda Harvey, eight living to adult age. They are:

ALONZO AUGUSTUS HARVEY was born at Lyndon, Vermont, August 29, 1818. He improved his opportunities for securing an education and at the age of eighteen, he began to teach school. He taught off and on for years, the last term being in his home district when he was more than sixty years of age. He taught the West Mansfield school many terms. On July 6, 1844, he married Rachel Ballinger, daughter of Rev. Caleb Ballinger. She was born September 15, 1823. For a time they lived in North Greenfield. Later he purchased a farm one and a half miles east of West Mansfield, now owned by Paul Southard. Besides teaching school and farming, Alonzo was a brick maker, and the bricks of an old Methodist Episcopal church that once stood in the yard where the cemetery east of this farm now is, were made by him. In the early '60's he sold this farm and purchased another in Hale township, Hardin county, Ohio, near Mount Victory. It is the farm now owned by John Jones. Here he farmed and taught and made brick, until about the year 1881 when he purchased a grocery in the east end of Kenton, Ohio, and moved his family there. Here he died December 28, 1888. He was buried in Wolf Creek cemetery between Kenton and Mount Victory. His wife died September 21, 1906. To them were born six children:

Here he learned the blacksmith trade. He married Sarah R. Diviney, of East Liberty, November 22, 1853. He enlisted in the 13th Ohio Independent Battery which, after the battle of Shiloh, disbanded; he then joined the 7th Ohio Battery. He was stationed at Vicksburg, Mississippi, when he sickened and died October 24, 1864. He was buried in the National cemetery there, Section 8, Grave 182. There is a marker in the cemetery at East Liberty, Ohio, to his memory, over the graves of two of his children that died in infancy. His widow died in Lima, Ohio, June 4, 1899, aged 64. There were two children of Daniel Y. and Sarah Harvey to reach maturity:

John Collier Harvey, born May 12, 1856. Single, and lives in Stuttgart, Arkansas county, State of Arkansas.

DAVID MARKS HARVEY was born in Canada September 7, 1833. He began to teach school at West Mansfield, Ohio. His first marriage was to Ruth E. J. Curl, who died from measles February 25, 1854, aged 21. In January, 1855, he married Pennina Wallace, and in the following May they moved to Iowa, near Castalia. Though still a teacher he began to preach for the Free Will Baptist in 1856. He was licensed the next year, and ordained in 1859. He continued teaching and preaching for the Baptist until 1868, when he was called to a better and more important position in northeastern Iowa until 1876. From 1876 to 1894 he preached in northwestern Iowa and in South Dakota. Eight years of this time he was Presiding Elder. In 1894 he was sent to Grundy county, Missouri, and remained in that State until 1901. Part of this time he was Presiding Elder in the Ozark Mountains. In 1901 he located in Mitchell county, Kansas. After a residence here of three years he was called to Stickney, Aurora county, South Dakota, a railroad town, where he built a new church. In the Spring of 1908 he moved to Kalispel, Flathead county, Montana, where he is in the ministry still, and "will continue as long as the Master gives me the strength." For an account of his work in the ministry see "Our Heroes of the U. B. Church," Vol. I, published by the U. B. Publishing House, Dayton, Ohio. There were born to Rev. David M. and Pennina (Wallace) Harvey six children:

CYNTHIA LUCRETIA HARVEY was born in Canada July 22, 1838. She went to Iowa with her father in 1855, where she married Hiram Polley October 28, 1857. For 10 years they lived in Brownsville, Houston county, Minnesota. Then they moved to Correctionville, Woodbury county, Iowa, for a few years. They next moved to Brewster, Blaine county, Nebraska, where Mr. Polley was elected to the office of County Judge, an office like that of Commissioner in other States. He was holding this office at the time of his death November 2, 1893. He was buried at Sargeant Bluffs, Iowa, seven miles south of Sioux City. Some years later Cynthia married Mr. Swalley. They lived at Sargeant Bluffs until his death in September, 1899. We next find her homesteading a quarter section in Wisconsin, undergoing the hardships of the pioneer. She is now in Sioux City, Iowa, keeping house for her son, Charles C. Polley. The children of Hiram and Cynthia L. (Harvey) Polley are:

Arcy Luella Polley, born August 28, 1858. Married (1) Samuel McSparren (deceased 1882). Two children. (2) Thomas N. Nickols, farmer, Ashland, Ashland county, Wisconsin. Seven children. The nine children are: Ruby Luella, 1881, teacher, Clearwater, Oneida county, Wisconsin. Single. Samuel Archie, 1882, farmer, Westfield, Plymouth county, Iowa. Married Mabel Mulheren. DENNIS RUFUS HARVEY was born at Woodstock, Champaign county, Ohio, October 10, 1840. He did not go to Iowa with his father, but lived with his brothers in Ohio, and went to Iowa sometime during the first or second year of the war. He enlisted in the 38th Iowa Regiment, Company H. He was with General Grant in the Vicksburg campaign. At the latter place he became sick with typhoid fever, and was sent North. He wrote his sister, Cynthia, that he feared he could not live but hoped to reach home before death. He died at Keokuk, Iowa, August 30, 1863, and was buried there, the exact location of his grave not known to the writer. He was single. He is said to have been industrious, studious and religious.

NOTES AND COMMENTS ON THE ABOVE OUTLINE.

The writer attempted to locate the grave of William Harvey (1754-1826) but was unsuccessful. H. B. Welch, who cares for the cemetery at Lyndon, Vermont, writes that there is no grave marked to the memory of William Harvey, but that he might be buried there as there are a number of graves of Revolutionary soldiers that have no markers. He further states that there is a Revolutionary Soldiers' Monument located in the cemetery with inscriptions one of which is: "Erastus Harvey, Died August 20, 1826. Age 72 Years." As this corresponds to the date of his death and his age it is reasonable to conclude that his full name was William Erastus Harvey.

There is a Harvey book written by Oscar Jewell Harvey, of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, a copy of which is in the Library of Congress, Washington; the Newberg Library, Chicago; the Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, Minn., and other libraries. The writer has not personally examined it but had it examined by a friend at Washington, D. C., who reports that he is unable to connect the Harveys therein listed with those of our family. This only confirms the tradition that our branch is of different origin than most of the Harveys of America, who are English, while we are Scotch. The Library of Congress also contains "Ancestry of Colonel John Harvey, of Northwood, New Hampshire"; "Inscriptions in Harvey Vault and Chapel, Hempstead church, Essex county, England"; "Genealogy of Family of Harvey, Folkstone, Kent county, England." There are volumes on the Ainsworth and the Beebe families for sale by eastern genealogical firms.

When the family came to Woodstock, Ohio, from Canada, they stayed all night in Columbus, Ohio. When morning came they loaded up and started on their way. They had not gone far when grandmother missed one of her flock. They returned to the lodging house and found David M. (1833), still sleeping. He was hustled out and the journey was begun anew. He was 5 years old.

After they had settled on the farm at Woodstock, Betsey Jane (1822) went to a neighbors to spend the day. When evening came she started home. Before she reached home darkness came down upon her and soon she came to a fence. She turned her horse about thinking she had taken the wrong trail. But each time the horse would come back to the fence. Finally she hitched the horse to a tree and sat on a log waiting for morning. When morning came she found she was only a few rods from her father's house. During her absence they had built a fence around the clearing which accounts for her being lost.

Aunt Cynthia (1838), remembers that about the time the family was living on Mill Creek in Logan county, that there was talked about a Bettis estate in France being divided. She does not recall that there ever came of it, anything more substantial than talk. John Bettis, however, is supposed to have left behind him a wealthy parentage.

Grandfather Harvey (1789), delighted to hold his grandchildren on his knee to whom he would sing his favorite song: "Life is passing away, away, hour by hour and day by day."

There are two sets of double cousins among the grandchildren as follows. Alonzo A. Harvey (1818), married Rachel Ballinger, and Thomas Ballinger married Mary Ann Harvey (1826). Edwin E. Harvey (1835), married Lucy Polley, and Hiram Polley married Cynthia L. Harvey (1838).

The oldest grandchild is W. Austin Harvey (1840); the youngest is Mary Ethel Williams (1881). In fact the three youngest children of Amos P. Harvey (1829), are the three youngest grandchildren.

Clara Adelaide Dean (1863), daughter of W. Austin Harvey, is the oldest great-grandchild; Clifford Harvey (1911), son of Frank Harvey, in Uncle Albee's family, is the youngest here recorded.

Rev. Thomas Harvey (1852), remained with the radical branch of the U. B. church when that denomination split over secrecy.

Charles Harvey (1851), of Valley Springs, S. D., has been Commissioner of Minnehaha county, South Dakota, for nine years. His second term expires in 1912.

Lanson B. Harvey (1858), was for twenty years in the Surveyor's office at Marysville, Union county, Ohio, first as County Surveyor, then as Deputy.

Rev. Julius Cone Harvey (1862), of Saint Maries, Idaho, is a graduate of Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa.

Clarissa A. Farnham (1858), of Eugene, Oregon, was for many years a school teacher. She is a fine writer and her letters show marks of scholarship.

Rev. Alonzo H. Ballinger (1814), was a member of Company A, 121st O. V. I. He marched to the sea with General Sherman. George Thompson was a member of Company I, 45th O. V. I. Isaac Webb was a member of the 13th Ohio Independent Battery. Augustus Nafe was a member of the 4th Iowa Independent Battery. John Henning was also a member of some regiment.

The sons of Mary Ellen Banning (1849), of Mott, North Dakota, have both steam and gasoline breaking rigs. The former draws twelve and the latter eight plows.

Rev. Milo R. Ballinger (1868), is a graduate of the O. W. U., of Delaware, Ohio. For the last nine years he has been pastor of the Colbern Street U. B. church, Toledo, Ohio.

Alonzo A. Harvey (1873), of Castalia, Iowa, is a graduate of the Upper Iowa University. In 1911 he received the prize for the best ten ears of corn raised in the north third of that State, and there came to him as a prize, a two hundred dollar engine.

Anyone bearing the name of Harvey not herein recorded, who might be distantly related to the descendants of Rev. Erastus Harvey, must of necessity be of the Nathan B. Harvey family of Western New York State, or of Rev. Rufus Harvey's family, partial outline of these being given.
